DEDICATION

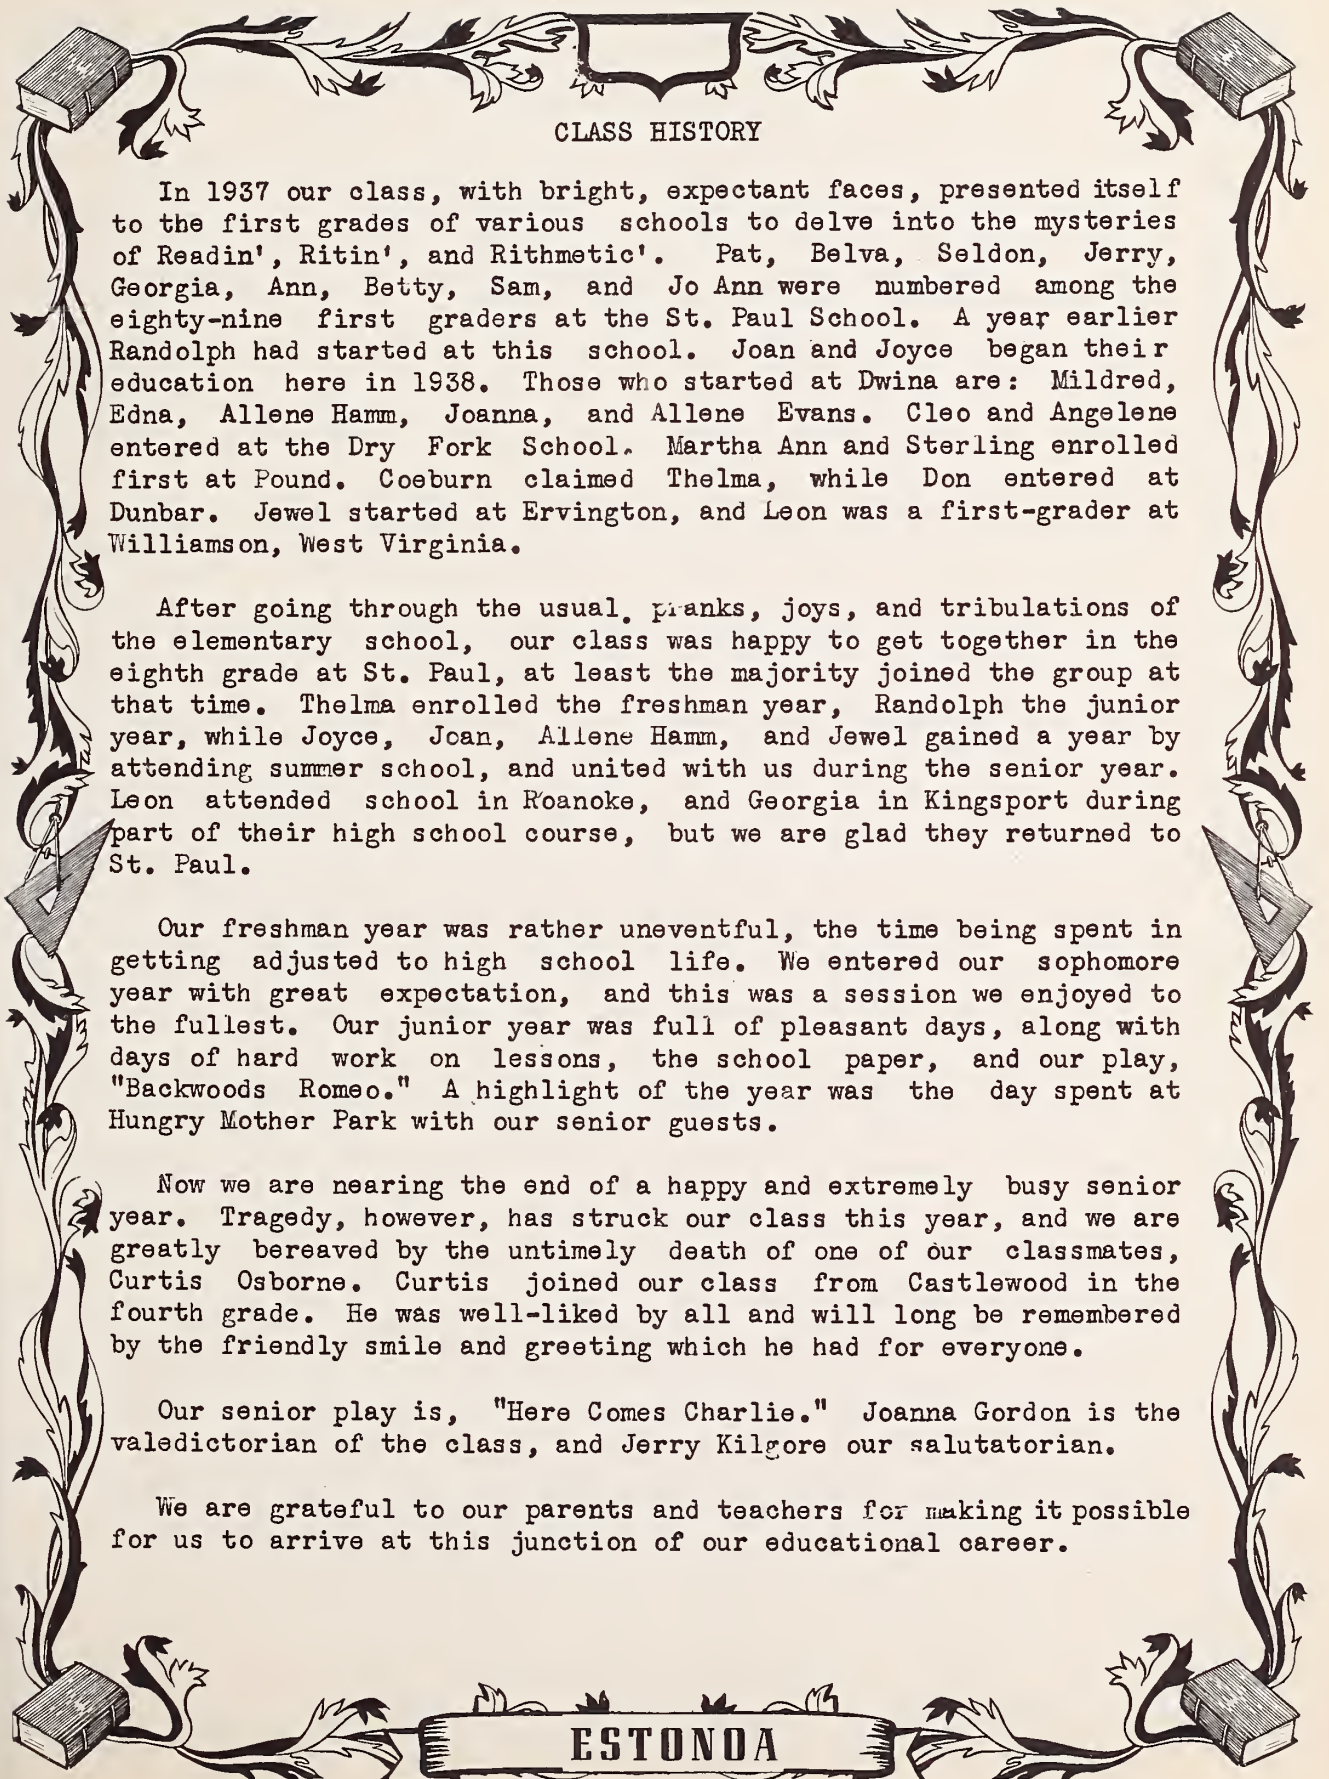

VIRGIL CURTIS OSBORNE

IN MEMORIAM

The Senior Class of 1949 affectionately dedicates this 1949 ESTONOA to the memory of Virgil Curtis Osborne, Class of 1949, who passed from us on December 1, 1948.

CLASS HISTORY

In 1937 our class, with bright, expectant faces, presented itself to the first grades of various schools to delve into the mysteries of Readin', Ritin', and Rithmetic'. Pat, Belva, Seldon, Jerry, Georgia, Ann, Betty, Sam, and Jo Ann were numbered among the eighty-nine first graders at the St. Paul School. A year earlier Randolph had started at this school. Joan and Joyce began their education here in 1938. Those who started at Dwina are: Mildred, Edna, Allene Hamm, Joanna, and Allene Evans. Cleo and Angelene entered at the Dry Fork School. Martha Ann and Sterling enrolled first at Pound. Coeburn claimed Thelma, while Don entered at Dunbar. Jewel started at Ervington, and Leon was a first-grader at Williamson, West Virginia.

After going through the usual pranks, joys, and tribulations of the elementary school, our class was happy to get together in the eighth grade at St. Paul, at least the majority joined the group at that time. Thelma enrolled the freshman year, Randolph the junior year, while Joyce, Joan, Allene Hamm, and Jewel gained a year by attending summer school, and united with us during the senior year. Leon attended school in Roanoke, and Georgia in Kingsport during part of their high school course, but we are glad they returned to St. Paul.

Our freshman year was rather uneventful, the time being spent in getting adjusted to high school life. We entered our sophomore year with great expectation, and this was a session we enjoyed to the fullest. Our junior year was full of pleasant days, along with days of hard work on lessons, the school paper, and our play, "Backwoods Romeo." A highlight of the year was the day spent at Hungry Mother Park with our senior guests.

Now we are nearing the end of a happy and extremely busy senior year. Tragedy, however, has struck our class this year, and we are greatly bereaved by the untimely death of one of our classmates, Curtis Osborne. Curtis joined our class from Castlewood in the fourth grade. He was well-liked by all and will long be remembered by the friendly smile and greeting which he had for everyone.

Our senior play is, "Here Comes Charlie." Joanna Gordon is the valedictorian of the class, and Jerry Kilgore our salutatorian.

We are grateful to our parents and teachers for making it possible for us to arrive at this junction of our educational career.

SENIOR CLASS PROPHECY

It has been ten years since my class, the Senior Class of '49, departed from our Alma Mater. I, Leon Talbert, wonder what my classmates might be doing now. I know they must be scattered to the four corners of the earth, and engaged in various occupations and activities. Since it is the spring of the year, I have an urge to leave my work as Chief Engineer of WKVW, and take a flying trip to see each one of them. Flying, did I say? Then why not rent a flying carpet from Marahuhua, the Hindu, and drop in on some of my dear friends? Won't you, in fancy, take this trip with me?

As I come into New York Harbor, I gaze toward the Statue of Liberty and, much to my surprise, see Randolph (Doss) Counts, who is chief engineer, replacing the torch on this great statue.

On my portable television set, I am astounded by the image of Angelene Hall, the greatest name in television since Milton Berle.

When I drop down for a cup of coffee and the latest edition of Esquire, I notice a copy of Madmoiselle and see Joan Addington's fair visage radiating from the cover.

Steering my carpet southward toward our nation's Capitol, my attention is attracted by the sounds of a hammer. Banking my carpet to the right, I see the famous sculptor, Pat Stanton, chiseling the White House. As I stroll inside for a short chat with the Vice President, I pass the desk of his personal secretary and am brought up short by seeing none other than Ann Lee Webber.

My travels lead me to my old stamping ground, Saint Paul, Virginia. Taking up temporary residence at the Blue Sulphur Hotel, I am greeted cordially by the hotel's dietitian, Miss Cleo Brooks. I accidentally drift into the dining room in the midst of a banquet in honor of Samuel Fields, football coach at C. R. I.

Taking an afternoon hike up Honey Branch, I am confronted by District Revenue Agent, Jerry Kilgore, packing a gun on each hip. Continuing my hike I proceed to the ghost town of Dante, Virginia, where I find Jewel Burke, living quietly as Mrs. Paul Castle; also, Joyce Jessee living, but not quietly, as Mrs. Bob Bartee.

I take the donkey express to Bull Run and Dry Fork and, while passing through, I stop to chat for a few minutes at Lawson's Store. Two housewives, Mesdames Joanna Gordon Trent and Martha Gilliam Dean, are busy shopping. Discussing past events, we learn of the success of Mr. Sterling Gilliam whose latest book, "She Died at the Breakfast Table", is currently on the best-seller list. In the Bull Run Bugle, my eyes are caught by items of great interest to me concerning Mildred Holbrook, who is happily married and lives in West Virginia; and Edna Kennedy, who is also married and lives in Tennessee. Another article I see states that Miss Allene Evans is gaining prestige as a technician at Mayo's Clinic.

Stopping at the new, modern Johnson Building in Coeburn, Virginia, I am greeted by Belva McCamey, secretary to the 5 and 10 magnate, S. W. Johnson. Still in the Johnson Building, I see another old acquaintance, Allene Hamm, head accountant of Coal Enterprises, Inc. For a little relaxation I decide to see a movie at the palatial Liberty Theatre, owned and operated by Betty Dye.

Bidding beautiful Southwest Virginia farewell, I point my carpet westward over our country.

My first stop is in Iowa on the corn farm of Thelma Evans, with her Ex-Navy man as chief-farmer.

Since recreation and relaxation seem to be essentials of my trip, Soldiers' Field, Chicago, is my next stop. Here I am thrilled by the brilliant football played by quarterback, Don Supcoe, of the Chicago Bears.

My carpet travel continues with a visit to the Bar B Cue Dude Ranch, located in Southern Arizona. I see Seldon Meade, owner, breaking in a bunch of wild stallions.

Realizing my carpet must be returned to India, I swing out over the far expanse of the Pacific Ocean. Turning on my portable short-wave radio, I soon detect the familiar voice of Georgia Kilgore, beaming forth from Radio Station, WROT, Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. She is a great success in radio and television.

Could that be India already? Yes, it is, and that means that I must stop this writing and get back to my work at WKVW before the boss discovers my absense. Now haven't you enjoyed this delightful trip as much as I have?

CLASS WILL

We, the Senior Class of '49, of the St. Paul High School, being of sound mind and body, do hereby make, publish, and declare this, our last Will and Testament.

Sterling Gilliam leaves his fluent French to Dana Brooks, hoping someday she will be able to say "toujour l'amour, mon chere."

Jerry Kilgore wills his popularity with the girls to Vernon Barker, with the hope that the girls will profit by his generosity.

Ann Webber relinquishes her ability not to get to school on time to Mrs. Bowman.

Don Supcoe resigns his athletic ability to Dale Gray.

JoAnn Bartee leaves her ability to play basketball on the floor to Emmy Gray Sparks.

Thelma Evans consigns her bangs to Polly Ann Jordan.

Joan Addington bestows her musical talent upon the boy with great possibilities, Bill Allen.

Seldon Meade wills his corny jokes and "cute" sayings to Gene Hanks, who could use a few replacements.

Cleo Brooks bequeaths her wardrobe of stylish clothes to Betty Holbrook.

Sam Fields bestows his laziness upon a worthy benefactor, Chester Bays.

Allene Evans consigns her quiet disposition to Lorraine Robinette.

Randolph Counts leaves his love for shorthand and bookkeeping to any person interested in Mrs. Camp's Commercial Classes.

Angeline Hall endows Betty Lou Roller with her ready smile.

Jewel Burke yields her ability to make the best of things to Hubert Lawson.

Leon Talbert bestows his vocabulary of big words upon Wayne Hillman.

Martha Ann Gilliam designates Deborah Lyttle to receive her man-catching technique.

Betty Dye leaves her lovely smile to Betty Boothe.

Joanna Gordon relinquishes her "gem" to any girl romantically inclined.

Pat Stanton resigns his ability to make teachers' lives miserable to Chunk Richmond.

Belva McCamey bequeaths her keyboard prowess to six-footer Larry McReynolds.

Joyce Jessee leaves her ability to get chemistry to Bobby Kilgore.

Allene Hamm consigns her skill to be heard to Buford Wright, with the caution, "Don't be a churchmouse."

Edna Kennedy wills her curly hair to Ilda Lampkins.

Mildred Holbrook leaves her love of English to Harold Dingus.

Georgia Kilgore bequeaths her love for the Republicans to Rex Talbert.

GROUP REQUESTS:

To the English III class we leave Shakespeare, Milton, and all the old English boys.

To the girls' basketball team we bequest the boys' victories.

To the future French classes of the St. Paul High School, we leave our teacher, Mr. Craft.

To Mr. Bowman and the other members of the faculty: a student body that really studies.

To the summer school session: a fan.

To the student body as a whole: the library, our home room.

To the junior class: our ability to sell magazine subscriptions.

DEDICATION OF THE NEW ATHLETIC FIELD
BOWMAN FIELD

On October 15, 1948, a happy celebration in St. Paul marked the occasion of the dedication of the new athletic field which was formally named BOWMAN FIELD, honoring W. H. Bowman, Principal of the St. Paul School, for his effort and leadership in making the field possible. This effort, however, would have been in vain without the contribution of time and money by many men, women, and children in St. Paul, and without the financial assistance of the Wise County School Board, as well as that of other friends. One of the largest crowds ever in St. Paul witnessed the ceremony.

Pictured above is Mayor C. E. Purcell of St. Paul presenting a gold watch to Mr. Bowman on behalf of the Town Council and the citizens of the community in token of appreciation for his accomplishment. Witnessing the presentation is Superintendent J. J. Kelly, Jr., who has served efficiently as Superintendent of the Wise County Schools for the past thirty-three years, and W. D. Richmond, Director of Education in Wise County, who acted as Master of Ceremonies for this event.

A highlight of the evening was the winning of the St. Paul - Wise Football Game by the St. Paul Deacons. Featuring the program was the fine performance of the Tri-City Band, consisting of students from East Stone, Big Stone, and Appalachia.

 Second Row: Jerry Kilgore, Bill Allen, Chunk Richmond, Don Supcoe, Buddy Frazier, Kyle Fletcher, Hubert Lawson.
 Third Row: Wayne Hillman, Tip Robinson, Pat Stanton, Chester Bays, Bobby Joe Hicks, Dave Brooks, Harold Dingus.

The St. Paul Deacons finished one of the most successful seasons in the last few years. These boys were led by Captain Curtis Osborne and Co-Captain Samuel Fields. The Deacons won four games, lost four, and tied two. This past season was the first time the Deacons have had a home field in years and the first night game ever. We all look forward to the better teams the Deacons will have in the future. The games are as follows:
